MONT GELÉ, LEGENDARY OFF-PISTE

Freeride enthusiasts are well catered for in Verbier with 11 marked off-piste itineraries reserved especially for them. Among these is Mont Gelé, a magnificent rocky sentinel of powder snow, which at 3,023 m marks the heart of Verbier's ski area. Coveted since time immemorial, Mont Gelé installed a cable car in 1960 giving freedom-seeking skiers the chance to tame this hallowed peak. Today, it only takes 3 minutes to reach the summit and enjoy a breathtaking view of the Alps with the Grand Combin massif in the foreground. The four exposed faces offer a variety of snow conditions, providing experienced skiers with two options: to the east, a 4-km long itinerary with 975 m of descent taking you to Tortin; and on the south face, a 3-km long downhill with 758 m of descent reaching La Chaux via the Cabane Mont-Fort.

SKI TOURING THE ROGNEUX

Here's a suggestion for a weekend that's both sporty and relaxing. Start from the car park at La Barmasse where your workout begins on a path climbing through the forest. Halfway up, you reach a small clearing where you can take a break to contemplate the surrounding mountains, such as the imposing Mont-Pleureur which sits at the bottom of the Bagnes valley. Once you've absorbed the scenery and recovered your breath, continue through the forest to reach a snow-covered road with a final, gentler slope leading to the hut at an altitude of 2,100 m. After all that hard work, comes your reward! On arriving at the Cabane Brunet mountain hut, the Corthay family invites you to taste one of their many traditional dishes, including Grandma's famous apple pie! It's now time to get some sleep in one of the six rooms of this newly refurbished refuge. The next morning, after a good breakfast, climb even higher to reach the Col du Rognieux. The most determined can reach the summit of the Rognieux via the ridge - add in another 45 minutes more to cover 600 m - or 200 m difference in altitude. For foodies, stopping for a picnic break at the foot of the Combins massif is a welcome treat before starting the off-piste descent to the Barmasse car park.

THE RACLETT'HOUSE

Legend has it that on a cold day, a shepherd put his cheese a little too close to the fire. He tasted the melted cheese anyway and was won over. Raclette was born! The method has since been developed and perfected to the point where it has become an art that maestro Eddy de Baillifard has mastered to perfection and that you can try out in his establishment, which serves as a delicatessen and village café. The right cheese - Raclette du Valais AOP of course - with the right grill, the right gesture and the right accompaniments both on the plate and around the table, and that's it! Let's hear you say: "No stay in the Val de Bagnes is complete without a visit to the Raclett'House".

A TASTE OF TRADITION

The Val de Bagnes is one of the Valais regions that most values its local flavours. Numerous restaurants in the valleys and in the mountains proudly serve traditional menus. A typical Valaisan menu always starts with an aperitif while diners tuck into a sharing platter. The famous Valais dried meat (viande séchée AOP - spiced, dried beef served in fine, almost transparent slices) is best eaten with rye bread (pain de seigle valaisan AOP). Round, dark and compact, rye bread is also cut into thin slices. A glass of Fendant is the ideal accompaniment to these local delicacies. Made from the Chasselas grape, this dry, earthy white wine is the star of every table in the Valais. The red wines of the Valais - Humagne, Pinot noir, Cornalin, Dôle, Gamay - go well with cheese dishes. The white varieties - Petite Arvine, Johannisberg, Amigne, Païen, Ermitage - are best enjoyed as an aperitif or as a starter.

Apricot brandies - Abricotine - and pear brandies - Williamine - also have a label protecting their origin and are a delicious way to end a meal. Enjoy them in a small glass with coffee or as a refreshing dessert accompanied with a scoop of sorbet. Consume in moderation!

Slow food community

Eat well, clean and fair is the motto of the first Slow Food community in Switzerland, launched just over a year ago thanks to the hard work of Sarreyer's farmers and artisans. The Slow Food Travel initiative has since been joined by the Vollèges communal bread oven group, a new member of this movement that was created to bring together consumers, producers and other ambassadors dedicated to the art of eating, and to promote food that respects the earth, animals and people, all in a spirit of sharing.

Spend the afternoon as a cheesemaker

Discover the secret of how artisanal tomme cheese is made – a one-of-a-kind experience in the region. The cheese workshop is run by Marc, who took on the reins of the Verbier dairy from his father. Thanks to Marc's expertise and his passion, you'll have no problem stepping into the shoes of an apprentice cheesemaker. Each workstation has its own cooking pot, which you'll use to make your own Bagnes tomme. As you follow the production process from A to Z, you'll benefit from Marc's explanations at each step along the way. While the cheese drips into the mould, you'll get a chance to try some of the dairy's other cheeses, such as Vieux Bagnes, Tomme and other house specialities. At the end of the day, you can either take home your fresh handmade tomme or leave it to mature in the dairy.

Activity for 10 years old and up

One price: CHF 50 per workstation (max. 2 people)

ART OF RACLETTE

Legend has it that on a cold day, a shepherd put his cheese a little too close to the fire. Despite that, he tasted the melted cheese and was won over. Raclette was born! Once the theory is out of the way - the origins of raclette, the tools used and techniques needed to scrape well - it is time to put into practice all the valuable advice Eddy offers. A short sharp flick with the back of the knife, and that's it! Once the move has been mastered, the long-awaited moment comes: eating! Full and satisfied, it's time to head home with pride, having added a new string to your bow - and a scraper's certificate to prove it.
